ABOUT US

Wild Roses Festival is a 3 day gathering for women of all walks. Together, we weave in celebration and empowerment of the feminine through healing arts and nourishing experiences that create lasting, ripple effects of change felt not only throughout our community, but world wide.

VALUES

- Reciprocity
- Inclusion & Diversity
- Sustainability
- Whole Wellness

MISSION

Our vision for the festival is to co-create a container for the world we wish to live in. Women hold so much wisdom- and together we have so much to learn from eachother. Let us move forward with curiosity, empathy and solidarity to work together to build a new earth, one we want to see for generations to come.

RECIPRICOL RELATIONSHIPS & COMMUNITY BENEFITS

Photo: Piyesew Crane, Mutual Aid recipient from 2022. Piyesew is an Indigenous birth worker from Samson Cree Nation. Last year, we raised $5000 in efforts to help them gain access to a speciality vehicle for their family so they can continue doing their important work in their community. In 2021, we raised over $550, donated to the Native Women's Association of Canada.

The Wild Roses Festival came to be in the Summer of 2021, what started off as an idea for a pot luck gathering in the woods that went viral. From the small profit made from this gathering, 50% of it was donated to the Native Women's Association to offer support to Indigenous women who were disproportionately affected by the pandemic.

Currently, we weave together as a community to create scholarships for marginalized women to attend the event through our Comm-Unity Scholarship Silent Auction that takes place during the festival, as well as donating 5% of ticket sales to charity or mutual aid. Last year, we raised $1325 through our Scholarship Slient Auction that, matched by Wild Roses Festival, created 8 Scholarship Opportunities for 2023.

While staying true to our grass-roots and reciprocal nature, this year, we are calling in financial partnerships to create nourishing streams of opportunity to pour back into the community. Our main goal with partnerships is to:

- Ease the inflating cost for event amenities
- Offer more scholarship opportunities for women experiencing barriers to participate in the festival through various ways
- Offer bursary for emerging artists (particularly BOC)
- Offer travel stipend for our presenters coming from out of province or country.
